Hospitality industry. I really enjoyed our travels and I believed no one knew Tucson better than I. Started out at a resort in Tucson, working front desk, then front desk manager, then sales and catering. Sales was my forte. Loved every aspect of sales: individual business travelers, group, government, weddings, conferences, golf, working with the White Sox was kind of neat. Participating in tradeshows around the world promoting Tucson was empowering. Then I did it again in Fort Myers, Florida.
Then focused on short and long term accommodations back in Tucson.
But made the most money selling toys---go figure.

Retired and volunteering with our food bank, women's shelters, men's shelters and a soup kitchen makes me appreciate the kindness of others and the life choices I made.
