Do you have a favorite teacher that made an impact on your life, and how? (Limit to 100 words)
Mrs. Laura Hays. I had her for French. She was funny (as well as young and cute) and tried to make class interesting. I lived in Morocco for six years and the base I learned in WB (and Jefferson) helped me to get to a point where I functioned well in French. I was far from fluent but had friends who spoke no English and held some parent conferences in French.

Give us a brief history of your life since graduating: (Limit to 300 words)
Went to Quincy College (now University). Taught in the suburbs for four years.
Fell into a teaching job in Cairo, Egypt. Thought I was going for a two-year adventure, but it turned into my career as a teacher in international schools (schools set up for foreigners living in other countries). Thirty-eight years. Traveled extensively. I came back to the US four years ago.
Still travel (I couldn't go to the reunion because I was in North Macedonia).

Tell us about your career path: (Limit to 100 words)
Teacher. I have taught all grades from second to ninth, and almost all subjects. I have taught fourth grade and middle school math and social studies most. I taught for five years in the Chicago area and thirty-eight in international schools (Cairo, Egypt; Jakarta, Indonesia; Rabat, Morocco; Lima, Peru; Ho Chi Minh City, Vietnam; Maputo, Mozambique; and Tashkent, Uzbekistan). I now do long term substituting in Elmhurst.

What is your proudest achievement: (Limit to 100 words)
Being a teacher.

Have you retired? What are you doing now:(Limit to 100 words)
Semi-retired.

Add anything else you would like to share with the class:
Iam a photographer (not professional, although I have soldsome photos).

Since moving back to the US, I am now trying to get to all thirty of the MLB ballparks. I am now at 24.
